Rise Up!

The pandemic has taught us that we are all much more connected than we ever imagined. We envision this time as an opportunity to reimagine and reinvent who we are and what we do as educators. Our goal is not to return to "normal" but to venture into the creation of a new brand of education that honors and serves everyone in our global community.

The time is now, and it's up to you! John Lewis

We have created a live 2-day online Symposium RISE UP! to inspire educators in their preparation for entering back into in-person or virtual school settings.

- We will address the four big issues needing answers today: Community Collaboration, SEL, Equity, and Learning Acceleration.
- You will hear our powerful keynote speakers discuss how they have blended theory and action into dynamic real-world solutions to education's most pressing needs.
- You will discover how communities can collaborate to create and refine schools that work for their children.
- You will hear the voices of the students themselves as they talk about their own hopes and dreams.
- Afternoon breakout sessions on each day will focus on getting your questions answered about tools and techniques for how these ideas can work for you NOW.

This symposium is for educators at all levels: faculty, leaders, coaches, teachers
